THE BARNACLE

CLASS of 1946
BARNSTABLE HIGH SCHOOL
HYANNIS, MASS.

We, the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Forty-six, dedicate this edition of the BARNACLE to the memory of Phyllis Hamblin, our former classmate, who was accidentally killed during our junior year. Although quiet and unassuming, she had won the respect of both her teachers and her classmates.

Foreword

Our period of fundamental training to be useful American citizens has come to an end. We are now ready to take our places in this troubled world. During our years of schooling, our teachers and parents have done their utmost to give us the necessary preparation and equipment for making our way in our future life. Now our turn has come to prove to them that it was not all in vain and to use this acquired training and knowledge to make a better world and to secure lasting peace.

In this edition of our yearbook, THE BARNACLE, we have strived to show the many ways by which Barnstable High School has prepared us for the future. Her varied academic courses trained our minds; her athletics trained our bodies; and her various activities taught us co-operation and tolerance. As a barnacle clings to wood, let us steadfastly cling to the knowledge and ideals which we learned during our years at Barnstable High School!

Barnacle Staff

In the fall of 1940, a rather excited and bewildered group of students entered the Barnstable High School in order to begin a new phase of life. During the ensuing two years, school life was somewhat of a routine of classes intermingled with assemblies and extra-curricular activities.

After the pleasant summer of 1942, the student body eagerly returned to become the freshman class of Barnstable High School. Each student had an individual decision to make, that of deciding the course which best suited him for his future life. Then began the academic, social, and athletic stage of every freshman.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy;" so many ninth graders decided to play with the "older boys." Baseball received the following boys with open arms: Dwight Coggs, Clyde Anderson, Edward Willman, Vincent Keavy, Herbert Morse, and Ormsby Sullivan.

Only two hard-working members of the freshmen class were claimed by the football team. They were Gerry Pierce and Philip Jones, who must be given credit for having had the stamina and desire to participate in such a sport.

The girls had hockey in their blood this year. Members were Mary Hart, Rachel Fisk, Seva Joakim, Anne Goodspeed, Anne Bearse, Katherine Daniel, Frances Gleason, Betty Buckler, Barbara Casey, Sally Maraspin, Madeline Harlow, Camille Ferguson, and Nancy Bradbury.

The music department was very fortunate to have many new talented students added to its groups. In the junior orchestra were Frances Gleason, Rachel Fisk, Harry Hellberg, Katherine Daniel, and Anne Alcock. Mary Hart, Jeanne Hasckel, Phyllis Hamblin, and Thomas McKeon were in the senior orchestra. Band included Edmund Santos, Walter Wannier, August Pocius, Francis Hart, Donald Duquette, and Jeanne Hasckel.

The freshman class was represented on the CLIPPER staff by one cub reporter, Anne Alcock.

This year we were unfortunate to lose six members of the faculty to the armed forces of the United States: to the Navy, Mr. MacSwan; to the Army, Mr. Connor, Mr. Fair, Mr. Hodgkinson, Mr. Taft, and Mr. Jordan.

Again in the fall of 1943, the group of pupils returned to B. H. S., but this time as sophomores. A new machine shop had been built, which offered new opportunities to mechanically inclined students. A boat building shop was also erected on the school grounds, which enabled many pupils to spend more time concentrating on that type of work.

We, now the sophomore class, elected our first class officers. Bruce Besse was elected president; Vincent Keavy, vice-president; later replaced by Dwight Coggeshall; Virginia Lawes, secretary; Eleanor Richards, treasurer. On the Student Council were Jeanne Hasckel and Nancy Horne. Mr. Charles Howes was chosen as class adviser.

The number of representatives of the sophomore class in football was increased by many. Besides the former players, Gerry Pierce and Philip Jones, new participants were Dwight Coggeshall, Merle Crocker, Stephen Bates, Clyde Anderson, Richard Cliggott, Ormsby Sullivan, Robert Sherman, Bruce Besse, David Burman, Walter Wannie, and Herbert Morse.

The sole cheerleader was Virginia Lawes. Basketball claimed Edward Willman, Dwight Coggeshall, August Pocius, Bruce Besse, Robert Drew, James Robbins, and David Burman.

The line-up for the girls' basketball team was as follows: Anne Goodspeed, Alice Souza, Barbara Lang, Mary Hart, Jeanne Hasckel, Eleanor Richards, Sally Bearse, Ella Maki, Katherine Daniel, Flora Peltonen, Virginia Lawes, and Rachel Fisk.

Additional representatives of the sophomore class in the band were Flora Peltonen, Rachel Fisk, Harry Hellberg, Madeline Harlow, and Thomas Fellows. New students of the senior orchestra were Flora Peltonen, Phyllis Hamblin, Edmund Santos, Seva Joakim, Anne Alcock, Rachel Fisk, Katherine Daniel, and Francis Hart.

With the completion of another memorable school-year, summer came, but summer, as always, soon fled, and everyone prepared to return to school again.

The first thing the juniors did upon their return from vacation was to elect class officers. Merle Crocker was installed as president; Vincent Keavy, vice-president; Eleanor Richards, treasurer; Virginia Lawes, secretary.

Class rings were on everyone's mind and before spring, they were on everyone's finger. We chose for the ring, the seal, which is shown on the title page of our BARNACLE.

Sports are of great interest to B. H. S. students, and this year football especially attracted Howard Williams, Robert Hallett, Vincent Keavy, and Carl Ohrn, who joined the other juniors, who had already had a year's experience on the field.

The Junior class was represented on the basketball team by Ormsby Sullivan, August Pocius, Vincent Keavy, Bruce Besse, Dwight Coggeshall, and Walter Wannie, all of whom contributed to the good record made by the team that season.

Many of the girls tried out for the ever-popular sport, basketball. Those who made the grade were Rachel Fisk, Alice Souza, Ella Maki, Virginia Lawes, Barbara Lang, Mary Hart, Dorothy Walsh, Nancy Bradbury, Camille Ferguson, Nancy Horne, and Jeanne Hasckel. Because of their superior playing, the team had an almost perfect season.

Members of the hockey team, which played only two games this year, were Dorothy Walsh, Virginia Lawes, Rachel Fisk, Alice Souza, Nancy Bradbury, Mary Hart, Camille Ferguson, Barbara Lang, Ella Maki, Katherine Daniel, and Jeanne Hasckel.

No sooner was boys' basketball over than it was time to think of baseball. Those boys from our class who participated were: R. Cliggott, W. Wannie, D. Coggeshall, O. Sullivan, B. Besse, V. Keavy, D. Burman, C. Anderson, R. Sherman, S. Bates, and J. Robbins.

The CLIPPER staff, under the capable direction of Miss Kathleen Lucas and the editor-in-chief, Katherine Daniel, accomplished a great deal and gave much reading pleasure to the entire school body. Nancy Horne, Mary Hart, James Smith, and Edmund Santos were the other juniors who served on the literary staff.

The cheering section, which followed our athletic teams everywhere, was led by the junior girls, Mary Hart, Virginia Lawes, Eleanor Richards, and Barbara Lang, under the direction of Miss Thoma.

There were no new members in the band or orchestra during our junior year.

As is generally the custom, the junior class sponsored a "prom," which, thanks to Bruce Besse, Merle Crocker, Dwight Coggsall, Vincent Keavy, Walter Wannie, Virginia Lawes, Nancy Sturges, Patricia Terry, Barbara Lang, and Mary Hart, turned out to be a very gala and enjoyable affair.

In the fall of '44, Miss Richards, Mr. Zeoli, and Mr. Coleman were added to the faculty.

Finally the year had come when the wheel would turn for the last time. We new seniors would graduate the following spring, but during our last year in Barnstable High School, we knew that we should be even more active and busier than we had ever been before.

The fall term started off at full speed when the class officers were installed. The new president elected was Howard Williams, with Vincent Keavy as vice-president. For the third consecutive year, Eleanor Richards and Virginia Lawes held their former positions.

The football members were the same as the year before. Because of the past years of practice and experience, and the excellent coaching of Mr. Shields, the team was victorious in every game but two.

For girls this year, there was interclass hockey, and the seniors came out on top, winning their letters for '46.

The basketball season proved to be very fruitful in our senior year. Although the team lost, by only a few points, several scheduled games; in the South Shore Tournament, the boys came out champions of Class A. For this, they received the class A trophy.

The girls' basketball team, a strong one as always, won every game it played, much to the credit of the team and Miss Nehubian.

Just before the Christmas vacation, the girls' glee club, which was directed by Miss Barton, gave a beautiful presentation of the birth of Christ.

We are justly proud that it was one of our seniors, Philip Jones, who designed the seal, appearing on the cover of our BARNACLE, which was adopted by the school as its official seal.

As our year book goes to press the baseball team and the track team are in spring training for a full program ahead.

This year the students of music, several seniors among them, were able to go to New Britain, Connecticut, for the New England Music Festival. One of the most talented members of our musical organizations, Francis Hart, is the composer of our class song.

The seniors chose "Spring Green" as its class play. It has interested many of us seniors, and the attendance at the try-outs for parts has been large.

Katherine Daniel, one of our most talented seniors, was awarded the Daughters of the American Revolution citizenship award. She certainly deserves it as she has been one of the most active good citizens of our class.

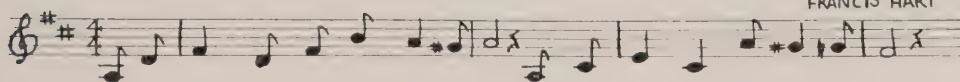

We, the class of '46, wish to thank Mr. Charles Howes, our class adviser for the guidance and aid he has offered us and for keeping us on the right road.

One of the last duties that the senior class has had to perform is to edit its class book, the BARNACLE. This year's BARNACLE was under the competent direction of Miss Mildred Richards, and we, the staff, hope that the senior class will like it.

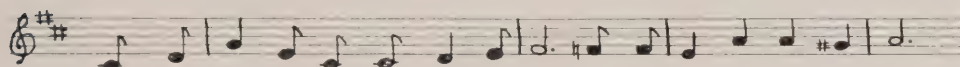

As all good things must at some time come to an end, so must our six wonderful and pleasant years at Barnstable High School terminate. There is an uncertain and troubled future to face, but with the excellent preparations made at Barnstable High School, and with the sound guidance of all our teachers and especially of our principal, Mr. Hodge, how can we, the class of 1946, help but succeed in whatever we undertake?

Class Song

by
FRANCIS HART

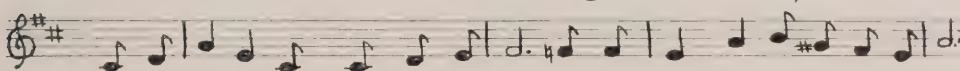

As we march out to-ge-th-er to-day, Hear the song we sing on our way.

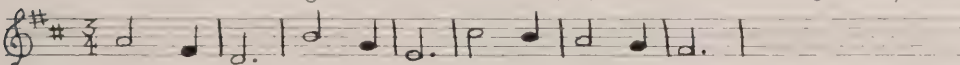

Hear the chor-us that will bring to mind Yest-er-days we leave be-hind.

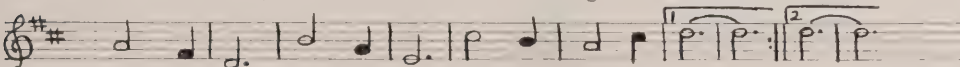

For we sing while we're march-ing a-long Of a class both loy-al and strong.

Of a class ^{that} through the time of fear Kept your stand-ard fly-ing year by year.

Barn-sta-ble, Barn-sta-ble, High our flag we fix.

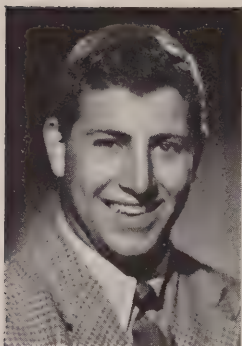

Barn-sta-ble, Barn-sta-ble, Nine-teen for-ty six.

Class Motto

"In ourselves our future lies"

FRANCES GLEASON
Hyannis

Franny's quite a girl. Never tired, carefree, independent, and always bubbling over with pep and enthusiasm, she really gets around. Her blond tresses are more apt to be bent over a coke or a sundae than over her school books.

It Couldn't Be

THE LIBRARY

The library is a favorite place for those who want to study because of its quietude and its many adaptations for studying. It is also one of the most pleasant rooms in the school, with its beautiful murals giving it a bit of interesting Cape Cod atmosphere. Mrs. Barr's excellence as a librarian and her generous assistance to us at all times have been much appreciated by us students of the class of '46.

THE WOODWORKING SHOP

The woodworking shop, which is very closely connected in work with the metalworking shop, is a source of pride to us graduates because of the excellence of its equipment for a school the size of ours and because of the high quality of work done there under the direction of either Mr. Glover or Mr. Mitron. This year a vocational carpentry course, in which they learn building and cabinet work, and for which the school will soon apply for state aid, was added for senior high boys.

THE COOKING ROOM

The cooking room and its mate, the sewing room, are the pleasant, well-equipped workrooms of the students of the home economics department. The home economics course, which is included in our school's varied curriculum, offers excellent training and has manifold possibilities for those girls who take advantage of it. None of us girls will forget the fun we had and the useful information we learned from working together in this busy environment at tasks that "every girl should know."

THE AGRICULTURAL COURSE

The vocational agricultural department was started in 1934 and is state aided. The purpose of the course, which is taught by Mr. Vendt and Mr. Rogean, is to train boys for occupations in agriculture. They are taught mainly: vegetable gardening, poultry, horticulture, and dairying. These subjects are learned by means of both survey and project work. However, the academic side of their education is not neglected for the boys spend half the day at that type of study.

B.H.S. Without

THE BOATBUILDING SHOP

The boatbuilding shop was built in 1934 by the boatbuilding and wood-working boys under the supervision of Mr. Mott, the boatbuilding instructor, and Mr. Glover; but the course was started in 1938 at the Crosby Yacht Building Company in Osterville. It was there that the boys adopted the nickname, "The Termites." Since 1943, the boys have turned out thirty-five attractive, well-constructed skiffs. Next year it is hoped that the proper equipment to aid in constructing larger boats will be installed.

THE CHEMISTRY LABORATORY

The chemistry laboratory, known to all as the chem. lab., is a source of fascination to almost everyone and of enjoyment to those who study chemistry. We students of this subject have pleasant memories of lab. days, when, under the guidance of Mr. Person or Mr. Levinson, we carried out interesting experiments in this well-supplied laboratory in order to get first-hand experience in the fundamentals of chemistry. It is to the school's credit that the number of accidents which have occurred during these experiments has been exceedingly small.

THE MACHINE SHOP

The machine shop is one of the things which makes B.H.S. what it is, for it is the best equipped in the state for a school the size of ours and even more machinery will soon be added. The shop was started as a war production training unit in 1943, and under the capable instruction of Mr. Grogan, has gradually been taken over as a school vocational course, in which the boys learn to operate machines and to take their places as machinists and die makers.

THE CAFETERIA

The cafeteria is a place which none of us will ever forget. The experience of waiting in lunch line and perhaps the practice known as "cutting in line" will be well remembered by most of us. Our busy twenty-minute lunch period was a vital part of our day; for besides giving us a chance to satisfy the "gnawing pains of hunger," it was the social part of our day, our enjoyment of which was increased by the addition of the juke-box this year.

Broadbent for his valuable assistance this past year as guidance director, and to Miss Janet C. Jones for her interest in us at all times and for her aid in the preparation of our yearbook.

The Student Council is composed of nine members—four seniors, three juniors, and two sophomores—and acts as a median between the student body and the faculty.

This year the Council has been more active than in previous years. Through this organization the Athletic Association has been organized into a cooperative group with student officers. The “juke box” in the cafeteria was installed by the Council also.

Representatives of the Student Council attended two conventions this past year. All members were present at the first in New Bedford, but only delegates took part in the business meeting. They were Nancy Pocius, Francis Brogan, Nancy Horne, and Howard Williams. At the last convention at Durfee High School in Fall River, delegates were Marsha Beebe, Nancy Pocius, Eugene Burman and Jeanne Hasckel.

Senior members who have been officers of the Council are Francis Brogan, president this year and Nancy Horne, secretary-treasurer during her junior year. Present officers are Francis Brogan, president, Marsha Beebe, secretary, and Priscilla MacRoberts, treasurer.

The senior play, "Spring Green," is a modern story concerning the Cassell family who patriotically convert a wing of their home into an apartment which they rent sight-unseen to an Army officer. The officer turns out to be Major Todd, a widower and a former sweetheart of Mrs. Cassell, a widow with two teen-age daughters. The girls and their friends are greatly interested in the Major's son whom they expect to be quite wonderful because he has lived in New York City, but he proves to be a shy, awkward boy with a passionate interest in earthworms. Many complications and humorous situations arise before the play's happy ending, all of which serve to make the play a successful and enjoyable comedy.

Our thanks to Mr. Groves who has so generously given his time and aid in directing the play.

This year, as in past years, Barnstable High School's magazine, "The Clipper," published the school news, gossip, and best literary works of pupils in grades seven through twelve, in two separate copies. The first issue was distributed in late March and the other in June. Many hardships were encountered in acquiring a printer before a Falmouth printer was finally secured. This was one of the reasons which accounted for the "Clipper's" being published only twice this year instead of the usual three times. Nevertheless, the "Clipper" was a big success. The candid shots were especially good and were well-liked by the readers. An informal consensus seemed to indicate that this year's publications were the best in recent years.

Much credit should be given to Mrs. Towey, as faculty adviser; Miss Whelan, as business staff adviser; and Miss Hayden, as adviser to the typists. All in all, congratulations to the "Clipper" staff and their able editor, Arnold Aikens!

To the steady beat of the drums, the B. H. S. band marched onto the field each football game last fall to back up loyally and colorfully the home team. However, it was not only on the field that the band made its appearance; for this musical organization also provided the music for several assemblies and was one of the main attractions at the annual spring concert. The band members, Mrs. Chave, their director, and the twirlers, who add the glamorous touch, should be congratulated for a fine year of work. Congratulations also to Arnold Aikens, Douglas Bullard, Francis Hart, and Harry Terpos, the band members who attended the New England Music Festival at New Britain, Connecticut!

These musical organizations, the orchestra and the band, mean a lot to us B. H. S. students because, among other more obvious reasons, they teach us a fine spirit of cooperation.

When the orchestra plays the processional march graduation night, the seniors will undoubtedly be too nervous to fully appreciate the music. This great event, however, will climax and end a successful year for the Barnstable High School orchestra which was this year under the competent direction of Mrs. Priscilla Chave. From their performance at several of the assemblies and at the annual spring concert on April 14, it was apparent that the members had turned in many hard hours of work at the regular Wednesday afternoon rehearsals.

Three members of the orchestra—Anne Alcock, Jeanne Hasckel, and Chester Crosby—took part in the New England Music Festival in March at New Britain, Connecticut, and received valuable, and enjoyable experience there. For their performance there and the performance of those members of the B.H.S. band who went to the Festival, Mrs. Chave received a note of compliments from the leaders of the Festival.

To Miss Barton, for her hard and efficient work, and to the girls in the glee club, for their hours of practice, goes the credit for this well-trained group. One of the things for which vocal groups under the direction of Miss Barton are most noted—and this year's group was no exception—is the pleasant distinctness with which they sing their words. This characteristic of their singing increased our enjoyment of their presentation at Christmas time of the song play based on the familiar French Christmas carol, "Jeanette Isabella." Other activities of the Glee Club this year was its participation in the Spring Concert on April 14 and in the New England Music Festival in March at New Britain, Connecticut. Those members who took part in this latter event were: Ruth Morin, Mary Murdy, Barbara Drew, Patricia Terry, Patricia Madden, Nancy Sturges, Alice Souza, Rachel Fisk, Mary Hart, Virginia Lawes, Anne Allen, Camille Ferguson, Betsy Keating, Nathalie Johnson, and Margaret Elliott.

This year, for the girls' athletics, there was no inter-scholastic hockey; however, there were interclass hockey teams, in which many girls participated.

Once again, Coach Nehubian's basketball squad had an undefeated season. There were two games played away and four played at home. The Barnstable girls found greater opposition in the two games played away from their home court. Miss Nehubian's excellent coaching was pronounced in that her team's pass work and team work excelled those of the opposing teams.

This year, a new interclass sport, softball, has been introduced to the girls of B. H. S. If this sport proves interesting to the girls, softball will become an interscholastic sport.

With the return of Coach Leo Shields, whose coaching ability two years of naval service failed to hamper, our squad of seasoned veterans took to the field, determined to crush all opposition regardless of name or reputation. A brilliant first-game victory over a strong New Bedford Vocational team at New Bedford started the season on the right track. At home, the B.H.S. powerhouse smashed Scituate and Falmouth, then trained diligently in preparation to meet Coyle. Led by fleet Herbie O'Connell, the great Coyle eleven staged a second-half rally to overcome B.H.S. The Red and White suffered not from this setback, but rolled decisively through Fairhaven and Plymouth. Our next trip was to Milton where we trounced their highly-rated representatives. The spirited Barnstable boys returned then, only to suffer a 14-13 upset at the hands of Falmouth in a stormy Thanksgiving Day battle. This year's co-captains, Merle Crocker and Gerry Pierce, were heavy workers in the backfield, combining with speedy Dwight Coggeshall and diminutive Ernest Brown. The rugged Barnstable line contained such stalwarts as Julio Renzi, Ed White, Ormsby Sullivan, and Howard Williams. Richard Cliggott and Philip Jones shared end responsibilities with Walter Wannie and Vincent Keavy. The team received reliable aid from the wealth of substitutes, who were coached by Shields' Assistants, Henry "Doc" Levinson and Harold Zeoli. This year's team has left behind one of the greatest records, both in playing ability and in sportsmanship.

Baseball will not yet be under way when this book goes to print since the opening game is not scheduled until the thirtieth of April. There are expectations of an excellent team this year as Coach Charles Howes is supplied with plenty of experienced material. The seniors, who dominate the ranks, are aiming high in order to give their high school sports career a happy ending. Among them are some formidable stickers such as Bruce Besse, Ormsby Sullivan, Dwight Coggeshall, and Walter Wannie. Upon them will rest the responsibility of scoring, while support afield will come from Vincent Keavy (Capt.), Eddie Bearse, David Burman, and a new-comer August Pocius.

With this backing and the dependable hurling of Howard Williams, Walter Wannie, and Richard Cliggott, B.H.S. is looking forward to a successful season.

When Coach Arnold Rogean's Red and White basketball candidates trotted out on the shining hardwood, their ranks were loaded with seasoned veterans of great ability. Robert Drew was chosen to captain the "hold-overs," comprised of Dwight Coggeshall, Walter Wannie, Bruce Besse, August Pocius, Vincent Keavy, and David Burman. This group, all seniors, showed great promise, and developed into a smooth-working, speedy five. The first test took place at Coyle High. Here the Red and White showed the affects of Coach Rogean's drilling, by playing one of the best and most exciting games of the season. The thriller ended with Barnstable behind one point (41-40). Next we met New Bedford High, the Eastern Massachusetts Champions, and were nosed out by a slim four-point margin in the last period. Over a thousand fans jammed the auditorium to witness this contest. Our first taste of victory finally came in Plymouth. The rest of the schedule was played against tougher competition than Barnstable had ever met before, including Provincetown, the Eastern Massachusetts Class C Champion.

At the end of a fair season, the Barnstable aggregation headed for Brockton to compete in the annual South Shore Tourney. Here, in class A, we first met, and defeated, Abington. Then, we took Oliver Ames (North Easton) in the semi-finals, and Middleboro in the finals. Thus, through three decisive victories Barnstable emerged Class A Champions of the South Shore.

This year the South Shore Class A Champions were invited to the Eastern Massachusetts (Tech) Tourney, which took place in the Boston Garden. At Boston, we were entered in Class B, and for our first game drew Braintree, the Champs there for the last three years. There were 6,000 fans present when the Barnstable five took the floor. During the first half we were hindered by stage fright and could not get used to the spacious Garden floor. Braintree had rallied to a 14-point lead by half time, but the Red and White came back, and, with rangy August Pocius paving the way, battled the opponents on even terms. Despite the fine showing, however, we were unable to surpass the long lead; so at the final whistle we were still behind 53-40, having cut down one point of the first half disadvantage. The team then returned to the Cape, acclaimed one of the greatest Red and White teams, and definitely the only one to bring such honors back to Barnstable High.

The B. H. S. cheerleaders were an extremely active group this year and should be complimented on their never-failing school spirit. At every football, baseball, and basketball game, including the basketball tournament, they were to be seen spiritedly leading the cheers, several of which were of their own original composition. These qualities, and their snappy new uniforms of a style novel to B. H. S. and the Cape, characterized them as an enterprising organization. The successful Swing Club Dance in April, which was sponsored by the cheerleaders, was further proof of their amazing energy and their progressive spirit. Much credit should be given to Miss Whelan for her interest and help in the girls' work.

With the return of track to the sports program at Barnstable High, a great interest has developed. Coach Harold Zeoli has a large number of enthusiasts to work with, and they all show promise. Four meets have been scheduled with various schools, but none of these will have taken place before the publication of the yearbook.
